

The regulations where in place and there seems to be no requests for clarification before designing and producing this "system". Also in view of the fact that a "legal" system could have been developed using 220Mhz, I feel that the system should be kept "illegal"